DEVESTATED I love fortnite . I am a 44 year old mom who learned to play to connect with my autistic son. I grew to love and for a mom I get a VR daily so pretty good for an old Mama. The greatest gift was to connect with my son and now it's over. I cannot play and I'm in tears over this. What a loss
I only have my iPad and can't afford another device . All the time and money spent but connecting was priceless and just like that it's gone 😢
The worst time too with covid this was a wonderful escape at a time we need to be home as my son is also high risk
The timing is just the worst

I love this game. But this is sad. I guess I get it, but myself and many others have no other way of playing the game we love if this isn't fixed.

Gregory Martis

It is not good that the 2 are fighting. And us have to pay for them. And all the money that we have put in this game. That is not good. Resolve the problem. There are to much child in this. And because of the problem they are craying. It is not good

Sap Pakje

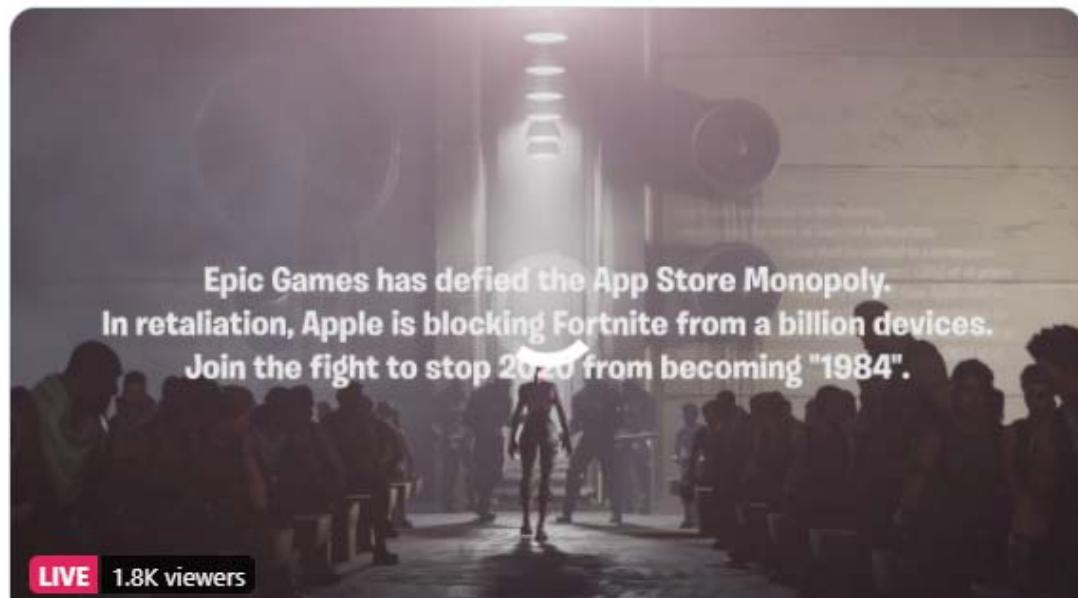

THIS IS SO UNFAIR IM ONLY GOOD ON APPLE I CAN FINALLY PLAY FORTNITE AND BE GOOD AND THEN THIS HAPPENS THATS SO U FAIR!

Once Chapter 2 - Season 4 begins, players accessing Fortnite will still be able to play the 13.40 version of Fortnite, but will not be able to access any new content or the new Battle Pass.

So what if a pc player and a ios player are in the same lobby and both ready up. Will they not be able to get into a game? Or will the pc player go to season 3?

Well thankfully I have no friends who play on ios, but it sucks that so many players will either have to swap devices or be stuck playing the same state of the game.

Epic Games wouldn't have earned a single dollar more with their new payment method. This would've only benefited consumers. As a result, Epic may now lose millions of dollars because they have (temp.) lost a big part of their community.

And they still stand behind their action.

I agree with what Epic did with getting Fortnite removed from the app store to make a point and everything but they should find a way to grant iOS players things like Battle Pass skins. It's not fair they can't get things like that due to Epic's actions.
